Fresh Vanguard Firing Snags; New Timetable Bared

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An attempt to launch the Vanguard rocket with a basketball-sized satellite aboard was postponed early today after a count-down of several hours.

The Navy gave no reason for the postponement, which was decided upon at 12:59 a. m. There was no indication when the attempt might be resumed.

Several times the countdown or preliminary check progressed to within three to seven minutes of zero, then was set back.

The new Vanguard satellite is 20 inches in diameter and weighs 21½ pounds. It is three times bigger and almost seven times heavier than its predecessor, Vanguard I, launched March 17.

Meanwhile, it was reported that the United States may engage in a new space venture every month or two next year.

DR. HERBERT M. York, chief scientist of the Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency, outlined these and other plans to the House Space Committee.

The scientist said ARPA was planning a board space program including development of a giant rocket engine with one million pounds of thrust, five moon shots previously announced, two more Army satellites and various "man in space" projects.

He said many of the nonmilitary projects would be transferred to President Eisenhower's proposed civilian national aeronautics and space agency if it is set up by Congress.

York outlined the following ARPA program:

1. Planning programs looking toward development of parts for much bigger rockets, better rocket radio systems and guidance and control systems.

2. A review of the practical applications of space projects. He cited as examples the use of satellites for improved communications, weather forecasting and navigation.

3. Considerably bigger programs for "space reconnaissance and early warning" of possible enemy missile attack.

YORK DECLINED to give details of the ARPA's military programs because the hearing was public. However, he said "the iceberg under the water is large."

Discussing the government's 1958 satellite program, the scientist said ARPA was considering launching "some reasonable number of scientific space vehicles per month."

"I don't know what's reasonable yet," he said. "Maybe one a month or every other month might be a reasonable number."

York said all primarily military space projects would remain under ARPA if Congress gives the President a go-ahead for the civilian space agency.

Wheat Crop Headache Seen

But Surplus Also May Provide Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—This year's wheat crop may turn out to be a big headache for government farm officials but promises to become a recession-time jobmaker.

The Agriculture Department says the crop may turn out to be at least 25 per cent larger than last year's production, and the fourth largest on record. A crop of this size (forecast at 1,190,000,000 bushels compared with 947 million last year) would add probably 200 million bushels to the government's surplus.

But it would require much more labor and machinery to harvest than was needed to get in the 1957 crop. It would require many more trains and trucks to move it to market and into warehouses than did last year's production.

Officials said this would add up to more work for harvest crews, more jobs and truck drivers and railroad workers, and more for workers at market and storage centers.

THIS YEAR'S wheat crop, like those since 1954, is being grown under rigid controls and retirement of some wheat land under the soil bank program. But unusually favorable weather and moisture (plus overplanting of alfalfa by some growers) is boosting production this year fully 20 per cent above levels desired by farm officials.

If the crop turns out as now indicated, there undoubtedly would be a net movement of at least 200 million bushels into government hands under price supports at a cost averaging around $1.80 a bushel or a total of about $360 million.

Harvest of the winter wheat portion of the crop will get under way in the extreme Southwest within a few weeks.

Source of Energy From Sun Found Radiating Night Sky

WASHINGTON (AP)—Discovery of an unsuspected source of energy in the night sky was reported today by a team of Naval Research Laboratory scientists.

It's a form of invisible ultraviolet radiation which streams from the sun, moves around to the dark side of the earth, and is reflected back into the earth's atmosphere by hydrogen atoms.

Researcher Herbert Friedman said that while the reflected radiation is invisible to the naked eye, its energy is five times as great as the sum total of all the starlight that is visible.

"If we could see at this particular wave length," he declared, "the entire sky would be lit up at night."

OFF TO CUSTODY HEARING — Cheryl Crane, 14-year-old daughter of actress Lana Turner, leaves Juvenile hall in Los Angeles with sheriff's deputies for a court hearing at which her grandmother was awarded temporary custody of her. She has been held by juvenile authorities since April 4, when she confessed to the fatal stabbing of Johnny Stompanato, her mother's boyfriend.

Grandma Is Given Custody Of Lana Turner's Daughter

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cheryl Crane, 14, cleared of murdering Lana Turner's lover, is out of Juvenile Hall today but not in custody of her actress mother.

Superior Judge Allen T. Lynch, sitting in Santa Monica Juvenile Court, Thursday gave Lana's mother two months' temporary custody of the teen-ager. She remains a ward of the court.

The decision came just 20 days after Cheryl rammed a butcher knife into the stomach of Johnny Stompanato, a onetime henchman of ex-gambler Mickey Cohen.

The ruling was, in effect, a continuance of the Juvenile Court hearing until June 26. Then a reappraisal of the case will be made to determine who gets permanent custody.

A coroner's jury ruled the slaying of Stompanato justifiable homicide. The Juvenile Court hearing cleared the girl of any possible murder charges. Charges of lack of proper parental control will be considered June 26.

THE DECISION made Lana, Cheryl and Mrs. Mildred Turner very happy. But the joy was not shared wholeheartedly by Steve Crane, the child's father.

Crane has made no secret of the fact that he would like full custody of his daughter.

"We are all happy with the judge's decision," Jerry Giesler commented as he led Lana, crying with joy, into a waiting limousine. The famine of words was typical of the close-lipped attorney.

Giesler, usually the first person called when someone in the movie crowd gets in a jam.

Giesler, 70, likes to describe himself as a plain old country boy from Wilton Junction, Iowa. And his courtroom demeanor has in it more of Iowa than Hollywood.

If the movies were casting an ace lawyer, Jerry couldn't get past the studio gate. But through the years such Hollywood names as Charlie Chaplin, Errol Flynn, dancer director Busby Berkeley, Robert Mitchum and producer Walter Wanger have shouted: "Get me Giesler."

The only thing glamorous about Jerry is his courtroom record and it's one of the most impressive since Clarence Darrow.

The British made their announcement in the face of a Soviet challenge to join her in a suspension of nuclear bomb tests.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China and Japan today reached an agreement in principle for a one-year trade pact. Negotiations had been interrupted by Japan's abortive attempt to expand trade relations with the Chinese Communists.

Oil Terminal Fire Burning On Furiously

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—A waterfront oil terminal fire burned furiously today as firefighters battled to prevent its spread.

Thirty-six hours after outbreak of the multimillion-dollar blaze in the Esso Standard Oil Co.'s Deep Water Terminal, fire officials said the flames were "confined but not controlled." An explosion in the steam generating room touched off the fire Wednesday night shortly after 11 p. m.

Company officials said 14 of the 21 tanks at the terminal have been badly damaged or completely burned down.

Still burning are two 20,000-barrel gasoline tanks and one 41,000-barrel railroad fuel oil tank.

Estimates of damage ran as high as $4 million.

Labor Bill Votes Slated in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate faces its first showdown voting today on whether to extend the scope of a labor bill beyond federal supervision of employee welfare and pension plans.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) planned to call up about 10 broadening amendments. He described them as designed to "enforce democracy in unions."

The Senate also had before it amendments recommended by President Eisenhower.

Sponsors of the measure remained confident they could defeat all amendments and confine the bill to the one subject for which it originally was intended.

The purpose is to prevent wrongdoing in connection with the employee benefit plans by requiring registration with the secretary of labor and full disclosure of the detailed operations of each plan.

Political Ticket Sales Curbed

OHIO HIGHWAY AIDES GIVEN DIRECTIVE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Orders went out today against sale of tickets for political functions on Highway Department time.

Highway Chief Charles M. Noble warned that disciplinary action would be taken against such practices or use of coercion in making sales.

His order to highway division engineers followed published reports that Civil Service workers in the department had been pressured into buying $10 patron tickets for Republican rallies.

The rallies are being staged in support of Gov. C. William O'Neill's campaign for re-election.

Noble's order distributed by highway teletype, said:

"The following instructions pursuant to Civil Service laws and regulations are called to your special attention:

"1. No Civil Service employees of the Department of Highway are to utilize hours during which he is paid for working to solicit contributions in any form for any political activity or organization.

"2. No employee of the department is to use any type or form of coercion to force any other employee to make such contributions.

O'Neill declined comment on accounts of ticket solicitations.

Democrat Plan Opposed as Being 'Dole'

4 Republicans Join 2 Dems in Blocking Clearance for Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opposition by half the powerful House Rules Committee has stalled plans for House action early next week on a Democratic-sponsored plan for special unemployment benefits.

Committee Chairman Smith (D-Va.), Rep. Colmer (D-Miss) and the four Republican members of the 12-man group Thursday attacked the measure as a dole which they contended might threaten the present federal-state jobless insurance program.

House leaders had hoped to get Rules Committee clearance for the Democratic bill so it could be taken up in the House next Monday or Tuesday. But Smith held only a brief meeting and then called a recess until next Monday.

The Rules Committee decides what legislation will be considered by the House.

The Democratic bill, which would cost an estimated $1½ billion, would go far beyond a $600 million emergency proposal made by President Eisenhower.

THE PRESIDENT also has used the term dole in criticizing some aspects of the Democratic plan, which would be financed by the federal government and would cover many workers not now eligible for jobless payments.

Eisenhower's proposal for an emergency extension of such payments would apply only to workers now covered by the federal-state program. Any federal funds used in that temporary program would have to be repaid by the states.

This unemployment compensation proposal was mentioned by Vice President Nixon Thursday.

He said there are substantial indications that steps already taken by the administration "will be all that will be required to give the economy the help it needs."

Nixon spoke in New York a few hours after Eisenhower signed a bill aimed at giving the economy a boost by speeding up supply purchases by federal agencies.

C&O Chiefs Given Nod by Stockholders

DETROIT (AP)—The nine directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway have been returned to office in a strong vote of confidence by shareholders.

Some 1,300 shareholders, who with proxies represented 87 per cent of the ownership, attended the company's annual meeting Thursday in Detroit. Women made up half the attendance.

Among those reelected without opposition were Walter J. Tuohy, the railway's president, and Board Chairman Cyrus S. Eaton.

A woman stockholder from Lexington, Ky., said she thought management was doing a fine job but she told Tuohy, "just keep sending us our dividend checks."

Tuohy was asked by a woman stockholder from Ashland, Ky., to turn over one of the company's no longer used steam locomotives to her city to adorn a park. She said it wouldn't cost much to place the locomotive there because the park is near the main tracks.

"All right, you've got a locomotive," Tuohy replied.

Tuohy urged stockholders to "encourage Congress to pass the laws that will assure this nation a stronger railroad system."

Ducktails, Low Grades Studied

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Does Junior sport a ducktail haircut, own a hotrod and get low grades? He may be a near-genius showing resentment.

A high school principal who tested 191 senior boys (all above average in intelligence but half of them below average in grades) said today: "Combining the hair in an extreme style is symptomatic of a rebellion against society and approved norms and conventions.

"It is also, like the zoot suit and yard-long watch chains, sometimes indicative of a rebellion against authority."

Charles Sutcliffe, 51, principal of Eagle Rock High School, began the study a year ago in 33 Los Angeles senior high schools.

The average age of the boys was 17½. Half of them (the high achievers) had IQs of 122,

The low achievers had IQs of 117. The average high school IQ here is about 101.

"The greater percentage of the experimental low achievement group owned autos, said they needed autos during high school and indicated an overwhelming interest in autos to the exclusion of things thought by society to be more important," Sutcliffe said.

"They also seemed to resent authority, had greater likes and dislikes and worked longer hours parttime. There was a larger percentage of extreme hair styles among the low achievers—ducktails, sweptback and long hair."

Deliberately getting low grades may be a form of rebellion by basically bright kids, the educator reported. It may represent, he said, retaliation against a teacher.

Is Junior a Resentful Near-Genius?

Discussing the government's 1959 satellite program, the scientist said ARPA was considering launching "some reasonable number of scientific space vehicles per month."

"I don't know what's reasonable yet," he said. "Maybe one a month or every other month might be a reasonable number."

York said all primarily military space projects would remain under ARPA if Congress gives the President a go-ahead for the civilian space agency.

Auto Union Said Cutting Own Salaries

DETROIT (AP)—United Auto Workers spokesmen refused comment today on a report the union's executive board has authorized a 10 per cent pay cut for 25 top UAW officers including President Walter Reuther.

The board, meeting here to review contract negotiations to date with the auto industry's Big Three also was reported to have ordered layoffs for 100 UAW staff employees.

Both the salary cuts and layoffs were among economies agreed to by the board in an effort to offset a decrease in union revenues.

The reported salary cuts will go to the 6 top officers of the union and the 19 members of the Executive Board.

Estimates of the amount of money saved ranged up to $50,000 a month composed principally of the salaries of the laid-off staff employees.

Reuther, who said in March that he received $20,920 in salary last year, would take a $2,092 pay cut under the plan.

The salary cuts and staff layoffs were caused by layoffs in the auto industry which have reduced the union's dues income. The UAW faces a difficult bargaining period with the Big Three.

The A3J is faster and lighter than some of the attack planes now operating off Navy carriers, a plant spokesman said. Details of performance are secret.

Outer Space Blue Man Is Grounded

BAD AXE, Mich. (AP)—Huron County Prosecutor James M. Umphrey released Jerry Sprague, 22, Donald Weiss, 23, and Leroy Schultz, 23, all of Bad Axe, Thursday on condition they stop playing space men.

Umphrey said Sprague had admitted he was the man who has been bounding out of ditches in recent weeks and into the path of approaching autos on lonely rural roads.

Umphrey said numerous motorists reported a man dressed in long blue underwear, a blue cape, blue boots, and a blue space helmet had appeared in front of their cars just after dark. They said that when they stopped to investigate the blue man was gone.

The prosecutor said Sprague had told him he and two friends decided to play space men as a prank with Sprague taking the leading role because "it was my underwear, and I was the only one it would fit." His two friends drove Sprague to and from the spots where he appeared.

Umphrey turned the three loose after they had promised to behave in a more down-to-earth manner.

4 Republicans Join 2 Dems in Blocking Clearance for Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opposition by half the powerful House Rules Committee has stalled plans for House action early next week on a Democratic-sponsored plan for special unemployment benefits.

Committee Chairman Smith (D-Va.), Rep. Colmer (D-Miss) and the four Republican members of the 12-man group Thursday attacked the measure as a dole which they contended might threaten the present federal-state jobless insurance program.

House leaders had hoped to get Rules Committee clearance for the Democratic bill so it could be taken up in the House next Monday or Tuesday. But Smith held only a brief meeting and then called a recess until next Monday.

The Rules Committee decides what legislation will be considered by the House.

The Democratic bill, which would cost an estimated $1 1/2 billion, would go far beyond a $600 million emergency proposal made by President Eisenhower.

THE PRESIDENT also has used the term dole in criticizing some aspects of the Democratic plan, which would be financed by the federal government and would cover many workers not now eligible for jobless payments.

Eisenhower's proposal for an emergency extension of such payments would apply only to workers now covered by the federal-state program. Any federal funds used in that temporary program would have to be repaid by the states.

This unemployment compensation proposal was mentioned by Vice President Nixon Thursday.

He said there are substantial indications that steps already taken by the administration "will be all that will be required to give the economy the help it needs."

Nixon spoke in New York a few hours after Eisenhower signed a bill aimed at giving the economy a boost by speeding up supply purchases by federal agencies.

C&O Chiefs Given Nod by Stockholders

DETROIT (AP)—The nine directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway have been returned to office in a strong vote of confidence by shareholders.

Some 1,300 shareholders, who with proxies represented 87 per cent of the ownership, attended the company's annual meeting Thursday in Detroit. Women made up half the attendance.

Among those reelected without opposition were Walter J. Tuohy, the railway's president, and Board Chairman Cyrus S. Eaton.

A woman stockholder from Lexington, Ky., said she thought management was doing a fine job but she told Tuohy, "just keep sending us our dividend checks."

Tuohy was asked by a woman stockholder from Ashland, Ky., to turn over one of the company's no longer used steam locomotives to her city to adorn a park. She said it wouldn't cost much to place the locomotive there because the park is near the main tracks.

"All right, you've got a locomotive," Tuohy replied.

Tuohy urged stockholders to "encourage Congress to pass the laws that will assure this nation a stronger railroad system."

Severe Locust Plague Ravaging Middle East

ROME (AP)—The worst locust plague in five years is ravaging the Middle East. It threatens to spread despite the efforts of 60 control teams of the U. N. Food and Agricultural Organization.

O. B. Lean, an FAO locust specialist, said the plague started in East Africa. In six weeks it spread through Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Israel, Syria, Iraq and into Turkey.

Wheat Crop Headache Seen

But Surplus Also May Provide Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—This year's wheat crop may turn out to be a big headache for government farm officials but promises to become a recession-time jobmaker.

The Agriculture Department says the crop may turn out to be at least 25 per cent larger than last year's production, and the fourth largest on record. A crop of this size (forecast at 1,190,000,000 bushels compared with 947 million last year) would add probably 200 million bushels to the government's surplus.

But it would require much more labor and machinery to harvest than was needed to get in the 1957 crop. It would require many more trains and trucks to move it to market and into warehouses than did last year's production.

Officials said this would add up to more work for harvest crews, more jobs and truck drivers and railroad workers, and more for workers at market and storage centers.

THIS YEAR'S wheat crop, like those since 1934, is being grown under rigid controls and retirement of some wheat land under the soil bank program. But unusually favorable weather and moisture (plus overplanting of allotments by some growers) is boosting production this year fully 20 per cent above levels desired by farm officials.

If the crop turns out as now indicated, there undoubtedly would be a net movement of at least 200 million bushels into government hands under price supports at a cost averaging around $1.80 a bushel or a total of about $360 million.

Harvest of the winter wheat portion of the crop will get under way in the extreme Southwest within a few weeks.

Source of Energy From Sun Found Radiating Night Sky

WASHINGTON (AP)—Discovery of an unsuspected source of energy in the night sky was reported today by a team of Naval Research Laboratory scientists.

It's a form of invisible ultraviolet radiation which streams from the sun, moves around to the dark side of the earth, and is reflected back into the earth's atmosphere by hydrogen atoms.

Researcher Herbert Friedman said that while the reflected radiation is invisible to the naked eye, its energy is five times as great as the sum total of all the starlight that is visible.

"If we could see at this particular wave length," he declared, "the entire sky would be lit up at night."

Woman's Court Hearing Delayed Again

Off-postponed hearing of Mrs. Alice C. Sensenbrenner, 51, of 313 Mound St., charged with failure to stop within the assured clear distance, was postponed again in Chillicothe Municipal Court Wednesday afternoon. It has been set for 10 a. m. next Monday.

Mrs. Sensenbrenner is the admitted driver of an automobile that struck a motorcycle on Route 23 in Ross County March 28, killing Jay S. Williams, 42, who had been stationed at Lockborne Air Force Base.

Scheduled for 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, the hearing was delayed an hour when other cases took longer than anticipated. When the principals were finally seated, John Scott Phillips, attorney for Mrs. Sensenbrenner, court exception to a typographical error in the affidavit. The typist had failed to add the "d" to the word "stated".

When the corrected affidavit was finally returned to the courtroom, things settled down and it appeared the case was ready to be heard. Assistant City Solicitor James Cutright made his opening statements and then Attorney Phillips moved that the case be dismissed on the ground the opening statement failed to set forth the charge.

He was overruled, but then it was found that it was time for the court-hired reporter, Miss Frances Johnson, to leave in order to get a ride home to Londonderry. Judge William B. Brown ordered the continuance.

Circleville City Schools has set May 27 for kindergarten registration. The announcement is being made early because a birth certificate is required for registration. A pupil must be 5 years old before September 1, 1958.

Parents may secure birth certificates from the county where the child was born. In Pickaway County parents apply for the certificate at the Probate Court of office.

An article will be published in The Circleville Herald May 22, listing registration centers as well as detailed instructions telling when to register.

U.S. Industrial Slump May Be Flattening Out

First Few Signs Noted; Executives Grow Optimistic

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — A few first signs that the industrial slump may be flattening out are sighted today amid the welter of unpleasant statistics on the recent past.

They are too scattered to foretell a turning in the trend but businessmen are watching them closely. And more company executives are coming forth with predictions that after some months of bumping along at the bottom of the slump the turn for the better will be apparent in the final months of this year and the upswing in industrial activity will be marked in the first half of 1959.

Here are some of the first signs of a change, as cautiously reported by business executives:

New orders for machine tools have risen in each of the last three months. Although these are far behind the volume a year ago, the National Machine Tool Builders Assn. notes that in past recessions rising machine tool sales have led the way to recovery in the capital goods industry.

A gain in new orders of late is also reported by Ralph J. Cordner, chairman of General Electric, who thinks this may herald an upturn in durable goods demand.

A similar rise in sales in recent days is noted by Crawford H. Greenewalt, president of Du Pont, who cautiously offers it as a sign that the chemical industry may be ready for a rebound.

J. I. Case reports its tractor sales are now running 25 per cent ahead of last year.

The department of commerce adds that consumer spending continues high for all items except durable goods.

In the prediction department are some other industries currently in trouble.

Augustus C. Long, chairman of the Texas Co., believes that the excess in oil inventories has nearly been corrected, offering the chance of better days in the latter part of the year.

A revival of demand for steel is expected before fall by Marcus J. Aurelius, vice president of U.S. Steel, and Charles M. White, chairman of Republic Steel.

These reports in themselves do not spell a return of boom times. But they do show that everything isn't as bad as some people paint it.

BUC Is Urged To Review 3 SUB Cases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. C. William O'Neill has asked for speedy consideration of three supplemental unemployment benefit (SUB) cases now pending before the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation (BUC).

He says the cases should be available for possible Supreme Court consideration.

In a letter Thursday to Richard L. Krabach, chairman of the BUC's board of review, O'Neill said it is possible a SUB case now before the Ohio Supreme Court may be thrown out on a jurisdictional question.

"This might well leave the supplemental unemployment benefit question undetermined upon its merits," O'Neill said.

The case involves a decision by Mahoning County Common Pleas and Appellate courts that SUB payments under Ohio law can be paid simultaneously with state jobless benefits. BUC Administrator James Tichenor has ruled that SUB payments must be deducted from state benefits.

The governor's reference to the possibility the Supreme Court may throw out the case is based on the belief the suit should have been brought in Franklin County rather than Mahoning County courts.

In the event the high court should throw out the case, O'Neill said in the letter, "I think it important that . . . another case, which would present the question upon the merits, be available for consideration by the Supreme Court with a minimum of delay."

The three cases before the BUC board involve lump sum and periodic payment of SUB.

Tom Jenkins Is Running Despite Health

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of southern Ohio's 10th congressional district says he plans to run for re-election despite being hospitalized.

Jenkins entered Bethesda Naval Hospital more than a week ago for "extensive checkups." So far, his doctors have refused to discuss his condition.

But an aide to the 77-year-old Ironton Republican said he has been up and about during part of his stay in the hospital.

Jenkins' friends and supporters are beginning to be concerned over his health. They point out that Jenkins, formerly a vigorous campaigner, has returned to Ohio only once since February and has not appeared at any GOP primary election rallies.

Meanwhile, Jenkins' two primary opponents, Homer Aberle, McArthur attorney, and Lancaster Mayor John H. Weis, are staging strong campaigns.

William Rowland of Athens, campaign advisor to Aberle, tried unsuccessfully to see Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn Thursday. It was reported he wanted Alcorn to persuade Jenkins to resign for reasons of ill health.

The 10th district includes the counties of Fairfield, Hocking, Vinton, Athens, Meigs, Jackson, Gallia and Lawrence.

A manned station on the moon could forecast the earth's weather to an extent now impossible, says Dr. Donald H. Menzel, director of Harvard College Observatory.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My secret desire is for my husband to ask me for a date! We have been married for 12 years, and I've had this same longing for 12 years.

As soon as we married Jim settled down to this serious business of supporting a family. He has been a steady wonderful husband and father, with absolutely no faults. We are still deeply in love. I suppose it is selfish of me to expect a little special attention occasionally.

My days are spent keeping house and caring for our three lovely children. I am never bored.

Jim and I love to dance; but never go dancing, unless there is a party we have to attend for business reasons. In fact, we only go out for business (to entertain a client), or with the children, because of their interests.

Several times I have tried tactfully to explain my feelings to Jim but he just can't or won't understand. He says courtship days ended when we got married. If he only knew how just a phone call to say hello would brighten up my day!

He brings work home from the office almost every night; so even after the children are in bed I don't feel that we are really "together." The problem has nothing to do with my appearance. I am still a size 12, and dress carefully.

Please understand I am not asking to be showered with gifts — just a little attention, once in a while. Is that asking too much?

D.V.

DEAR D.V.: All things considered, in your situation, your secret longing is a little silly, I think — the desire to be dated by your husband occasionally, on a strictly "we two" basis.

It indicates that marriage, as such, is somewhat less prized by you than the experience of being courted. And that's a pretty "arrested" sense of values, isn't it?

Some husbands (as well as some wives) would feel embarrassed, or awkwardly out-of-character in the domestic role, if they were made self-conscious, as it were, of their profound attraction to, and need of, the domestic partner. These essentially reserved, deeply self-governed types consider it more seemly, in marriage, to be matter of fact, rather than exotic in manifesting conjugal devotion and contentment.

And probably they are more nearly on the beam of truth — on the track of reality, or higher development — in accepting mutual love as a condition of grace, in which to live productively, rather than a form of personal treasure on a juvenile level.

For advice: Outwit the wistful feeling of waiting for a date that's never asked, by creating a date-atmosphere for your beau at home. For a special event — say his birthday — set a beautiful table, with candles and flowers, and his favorite main dish and dessert. And wear something different in which you look lovely.

When he works late hours at home, refresh yourself with a leisurely bath, get into attractive lounging clothes, and fix a special

Uhrichsville Council Backs Mayor in Highway Blockade

UHRICHVILLE, Ohio (AP) — City Council Thursday night voted support to Uhrichsville Mayor Jess Dempster in his highway blockade, which has been attacked in the courts by the State Highway Department.

A hearing was to have been held Thursday in Tuscarawas County Common Pleas Court at New Philadelphia on the department's request for an injunction against the barricades. Instead, Judge Cletus A. Fisher conducted a 4½-hour conference, urging the city and department to compromise.

They could not.

Dempster, who ordered the barricades up two weeks ago on combined U. S. 250 and 36 and Ohio 8, maintained that the city has no funds for repairs on the 1,800-foot section of highway. He wants the state to pay the major portion of the rebuilding job that is needed.

William Quicksall Jr., deputy director of the highway department's division 11, offered the city use of department equipment to make temporary repairs so the routes can be reopened until a permanent solution is worked out. Dempster turned down this offer.

The department contends that for a rebuilding job, estimated to cost $150,000, it can pay no more than 50 per cent. Dempster says the city can afford to pay no more than 5 per cent of the cost of such a project.

Judge Fisher set the final hearing for May 27 to give both sides more time. "There will be no more continuances," he declared.

The judge said he would not "order those barricades down with the street in the condition it is."

"The city does have the authority to close the street if it is necessary," he continued.

Motorists passing through Uhrichsville can resort to side-streets to get around the blockade. However, drivers of heavy trucks risk arrest for violating the city's 5-ton load limit if they try to skirt the barricades.

The two grappled on the floor, just in front of the jury, until separated by bailiffs.

A woman juror fainted.

After order was fully restored, Howard pleaded guilty.

U.S. Industrial Slump May Be Flattening Out

First Few Signs Noted; Executives Grow Optimistic

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A few first signs that the industrial slump may be flattening out are sighted today amid the welter of unpleasant statistics on the recent past.

They are too scattered to foretell a turning in the trend but businessmen are watching them closely. And more company executives are coming forth with predictions that after some months of bumping along at the bottom of the slump the turn for the better will be apparent in the final months of this year and the upswing in industrial activity will be marked in the first half of 1959.

Here are some of the first signs of a change, as cautiously reported by business executives:

New orders for machine tools have risen in each of the last three months. Although these are far behind the volume a year ago, the National Machine Tool Builders Assn. notes that in past recessions rising machine tool sales have led the way to recovery in the capital goods industry.

A gain in new orders of late is also reported by Ralph J. Cordner, chairman of General Electric, who thinks this may herald an upturn in durable goods demand.

A similar rise in sales in recent days is noted by Crawford H. Greenwalt, president of Du Pont, who cautiously offers it as a sign that the chemical industry may be ready for a rebound.

J. I. Case reports its tractor sales are now running 25 per cent ahead of last year.

The department of commerce adds that consumer spending continues high for all items except durable goods.

In the prediction department are some other industries currently in trouble.

Augustus C. Long, chairman of the Texas Co., believes that the excess in oil inventories has nearly been corrected, offering the chance of better days in the latter part of the year.

A revival of demand for steel is expected before fall by Marcus J. Aurelius, vice president of U.S. Steel, and Charles M. White, chairman of Republic Steel.

These reports in themselves do not spell a return of boom times. But they do show that everything isn't as bad as some people paint it.

No Recession Seen in Farming

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said Thursday there is no recession in farming.

Income in agriculture has risen steadily in the last three years, he told a news conference.

Benson said farm income is currently 10 per cent ahead of last year's rate and up 15 per cent from two years ago.

Expressing belief the recession has hit bottom and that some parts of the economy show improvement, Benson said the only way the recession could affect farmers would be to reduce off-farm opportunities.

BUC Is Urged To Review 3 SUB Cases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill has asked for speedy consideration of three supplemental unemployment benefit (SUB) cases now pending before the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation (BUC).

He says the cases should be available for possible Supreme Court consideration.

In a letter Thursday to Richard L. Krabach, chairman of the BUC's board of review, O'Neill said it is possible a SUB case now before the Ohio Supreme Court may be thrown out on a jurisdictional question.

"This might well leave the supplemental unemployment benefit question undetermined upon its merits," O'Neill said.

The case involves a decision by Mahoning County Common Pleas and Appellate courts that SUB payments under Ohio law can be paid simultaneously with state jobless benefits. BUC Administrator James Tichenor has ruled that SUB payments must be deducted from state benefits.

The governor's reference to the possibility the Supreme Court may throw out the case is based on the belief the suit should have been brought in Franklin County rather than Mahoning County courts.

In the event the high court should throw out the case, O'Neill said in the letter, "I think it important that . . . another case, which would present the question upon the merits, be available for consideration by the Supreme Court with a minimum of delay."

The three cases before the BUC board involve lump sum and periodic payment of SUB.

Tom Jenkins Is Running Despite Health

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of southern Ohio's 10th congressional district says he plans to run for re-election despite being hospitalized.

Jenkins entered Bethesda Naval Hospital more than a week ago for "extensive checkups." So far, his doctors have refused to discuss his condition.

But an aide to the 77-year-old Ironport Republican said he has been up and about during part of his stay in the hospital.

Jenkins' friends and supporters are beginning to be concerned over his health. They point out that Jenkins, formerly a vigorous campaigner, has returned to Ohio only once since February and has not appeared at any GOP primary election rallies.

Meanwhile, Jenkins' two primary opponents, Homer Aberle, McArthur attorney, and Lancaster Mayor John H. Weis, are staging strong campaigns.

William Rowland of Athens, campaign advisor to Aberle, tried unsuccessfully to see Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn Thursday. It was reported he wanted Alcorn to persuade Jenkins to resign for reasons of ill health.

The 10th district includes the counties of Fairfield, Hocking, Vinton, Athens, Meigs, Jackson, Gallia and Lawrence.

A manned station on the moon could forecast the earth's weather to an extent now impossible, says Dr. Donald H. Menzel, director of Harvard College Observatory.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My secret desire is for my husband to ask me for a date! We have been married for 12 years, and I've had this same longing for 12 years.

As soon as we married Jim settled down to this serious business of supporting a family. He has been a steady wonderful husband and father, with absolutely no faults. We are still deeply in love. I suppose it is selfish of me to expect a little special attention occasionally.

My days are spent keeping house and caring for our three lovely children. I am never bored. Jim and I love to dance; but never go dancing, unless there is a party we have to attend for business reasons. In fact, we only go out for business (to entertain a client), or with the children, because of their interests.

Several times I have tried tactfully to explain my feelings to Jim but he just can't or won't understand. He says courting days ended when we got married. If he only knew how just a phone call to say hello would brighten up my day!

He brings work home from the office almost every night; so even after the children are in bed I don't feel that we are really "together." The problem has nothing to do with my appearance. I am still a size 12, and dress carefully.

Please understand I am not asking to be showered with gifts — just a little attention, once in a while. Is that asking too much?

D.V.

DEAR D.V.: All things considered, in your situation, your secret longing is a little silly, I think — the desire to be dated by your husband occasionally, on a strictly "we two" basis.

It indicates that marriage, as such, is somewhat less prized by you than the experience of being courted. And that's a pretty "arrested" sense of values, isn't it?

Some husbands (as well as some wives) would feel embarrassed, or awkwardly out-of-character in the domestic role, if they were made self-conscious, as it were, of their profound attraction to, and need of, the domestic partner. These essentially reserved, deeply self-governed types consider it more seemly, in marriage, to be matter of fact, rather than exotic in manifesting conjugal devotion and contentment.

And probably they are more nearly on the beam of truth — on the track of reality, or higher development — in accepting mutual love as a condition of grace, in which to live productively, rather than a form of personal treasure on a juvenile level.

For advice: Outwit the wistful feeling of waiting for a date that's never asked, by creating a date-atmosphere for your beau at home. For a special event—say his birthday—set a beautiful table, with candles and flowers, and his favorite main dish and dessert. And wear something different in which you look lovely.

When he works late hours at home, refresh yourself with a leisurely bath, get into attractive lounging clothes, and fix a special

Uhrichsville Council Backs Mayor in Highway Blockade

UHRICHVILLE, Ohio (AP)—City Council Thursday night voted support to Uhrichsville Mayor Jess Dempster in his highway blockade, which has been attacked in the courts by the State Highway Department.

A hearing was to have been held Thursday in Tuscarawas County Common Pleas Court at New Philadelphia on the department's request for an injunction against the barricades. Instead, Judge Cletus A. Fisher conducted a 4½-hour conference, urging the city and department to compromise.

They could not. Dempster, who ordered the barricades up two weeks ago on combined U. S. 250 and 36 and Ohio 8, maintained that the city has no funds for repairs on the 1,800-foot section of highway. He wants the state to pay the major portion of the rebuilding job that is needed.

William Quicksall Jr., deputy director of the highway department's division II, offered the city use of department equipment to make temporary repairs so the routes can be reopened until a permanent solution is worked out. Dempster turned down this offer.

The department contends that tray to share with him. Something good to drink—a nightcap he likes, and maybe a snack to go with it.

Individuals Important in Elections

To every Pickaway County citizen who is eligible to vote, it should be apparent that the near approach of the primary election date, May 6, should mean that he and she should make an honest effort to learn about the qualifications of candidates for the offices they seek.

Those who are to be nominated at this election become candidates for actual election to the positions they seek at the general election next November. Thus the proper exercise of the choice of candidates of either party, for election in November, lies in the hands of people who are individuals.

It seems unfortunate that so many adult individuals assume the position that their particular votes are negligible and it makes little difference whether or not they vote.

Every year it becomes evident that a lot of time and persuasion is necessary to make so many people realize that the total vote of any community is made up of individuals; that far too many have the same careless attitude. They fail to recognize their real responsibility as citizens. This is true not only in this community but all over our nation.

It often has happened that when a large number of people, in a community, or a state, decide on any occasion that their votes are not necessary or don't matter,

Did Russia Suffer 'Disaster'

There has been no confirmation of the story from Denmark that the dirtiest of all fall-out conditions followed recent nuclear tests by the Soviet Union as a result of a nuclear "disaster." But the story is interesting because of other information obtained through neutral listening posts such as Switzerland and Sweden.

The fall-out report had been partially confirmed by scientific measurements showing an unusual amount of radiation. It was assumed that Russia was the principal sufferer. The Denmark findings suggests that to be the case, though upper atmosphere currents carried the fall-out to other countries, including parts of the United States.

Whether Russia is frightened by the consequences of its own excessive testing or merely uses rumors to frighten the rest of the world for Moscow's purposes is in the

the result at the polls is sometimes damaging to the public interest.

Today we have close to 170 million people in our country with a total of 220 million expected by 1975. Most of us are in the cities and towns. As we mill about, rubbing elbows and jarring ribs, we may conclude not surprisingly — that as individual humans we count for less and less.

This isn't really true. No matter how many of us there are on the scene of our country and our world can only be the sum of all the things we all do as individuals both in our private and our public lives.

In the tighter circle of family, friends and neighbors, we are always an irreplaceable link. We cannot die, move away, go to jail or even get a divorce without breaking the circle and leaving an unhappy void.

As we move through life, we play countless interlocking roles, from time to time dropping some and adding others. When somehow we step out of this complex web, or shatter a firm pattern all those we touch in our daily passage are affected. In greater or lesser measure, their lives will never be the same.

Thus it becomes every one of us to realize and act accordingly in fulfilling our civic responsibilities.

Certainly exercising our right to vote is one of the most important of these.

realm of conjecture. It is more likely that our regard for fall-out to be ready for its grandstand play on stopping tests.

The United States will complete its tests, Washington being confident that its "clean process will harm no one. But repetitious rumors about possible bad effects have already added to the numerous fears of mankind.

World's Fair Visitors Warned

By Hal Boyle

By EDDY GILMORE
(For Hal Boyle)
BRUSSELS — Visitors to the 1958 world's fair should arrive equipped with plenty of cash, courage, patience and strong feet.

They'll need the money for Brussels high prices, courage for rides with the city's speed demon taxi drivers, patience for waiting in long lines at the fair for food, and strong feet to tramp the exhibition's 550 acres.

In November an American reserved a double room with bath for himself and wife at a good but not swanky hotel. He was asked to pay 540 francs—$10.80—in advance.

On April 4 he was notified that with an increase in prices authorized by the government, the room would now cost 963 francs—$19.26.

Brussels taximen have new automobiles, mostly American and German, capable of great speed.

Just before the World's Fair opened April 17, the starting fare was increased from 7 to 10 francs—20 cents. There is a local ordinance compelling a taxi user to tip a minimum of 15 per cent. But if you stick to the minimum, you'll get more than a dirty glare.

Despite dozens of restaurants, there still are not enough. The restaurant at the American Pavilion has had a lineup every day since the fair's opening.

Prices range from 50 cents for a prime beef hamburger, $1.60 for Dixie style barbecued half spring chicken, and 20 cents for coffee.

At the fairgrounds there are four ways of visiting the exhibits: by motorized trains that rumble through the grounds, by motorized rickshaws, by two-man gondolas that glide along cables suspended over the heads of the crowd, and by foot.

No admission is charged at the various exhibits, but this does not hold for the sprawling amusement park section.

Buying a cocktail, whisky, gin or brandy is no problem in Brussels, but it's a costly process. Spirits are legal at private clubs and hotels.

What Is the Fate of Israel?

By George Sokolsky

The state of Israel this year celebrates its tenth anniversary. At this time, as Prince Faisal has said, the Arabs are more devoted than ever to the destruction of Israel. Incidentally, they also plan to destroy the independence of Lebanon which is about half Moslem and half Christian.

From the Arab standpoint, the issue is simple: Israel represents a Western European enclave in the Arabic world. It does not matter that most of the Jewish inhabitants of Israel come from Eastern European, Africa and Asia countries; the prevailing culture, the political and social systems, the educational methods, the trade and commerce are Western European in all their manifestations.

If Israel has 10 years more of life, its influence upon the youth of surrounding countries will be enormous. Nasser, who seeks to build an Arab empire, and who may succeed with the help of the United States and Soviet Russia competing against each other for his favor, desires no extraneous cultural or political force in his area.

Nasser will only compromise concerning Israel temporarily for consideration. In a word, if the United States pays for his dam, as it appears that we are planning to do one way or another, he might, upon request, let up on Israel for a time. From Soviet Russia, Israel can expect no aid. Khrushchev is pursuing the anti-Jewish policy which Stalin developed in his latter years, a policy that reverts to the concept of an utterly monolithic society of the Pan-Slavism of Czarist days.

Whatever those who do not like Jews believe, they do struggle everywhere for human liberty. In the Bolshevik Revolution, it was Jews, Trotsky, Kamenev, Zinoviev, who fought against the tyranny of Stalin and gave their lives for that fight. Similarly, the Jewish writers in Soviet Russia were the ones who have been somewhat critical of the regime, even if their voices were like a whisper in a tornado. Who knows which of them remains alive?

This kind of independent thinking, Khrushchev does not need, and although he boasts of a Jewish son-in-law or some such relative, he has made it clear that he wants no independence of thought, that he wants a tight, channelled organization in which men do as they are told and he does all the thinking. Jews do not lend themselves readily to such a concept of life. If they are at times out of step, it is because they are compelled by an ancient tradition to speak up. Khrushchev does not need them any more than Nasser needs them or Hitler needed them. Independence is not a desirable quality among dictators. This, rather than religious differences or the Arab refugee problem, is the basis for the antagonism toward Israel. It will not readily die down and yet there are too many centuries of Jewish life in the Arab world to permit religious difference to be used as an excuse for Arab antagonism toward Jews. For instance, for centuries there were Jewish principalities in Arab countries. Ben-Zvi, President of Israel, has written an ethnological and historical account of this intermingling of peoples, entitled, "The Exiled and The Redeemed." This book is neither propaganda nor apology; it is a scientific work.

Particularly interesting are the Jews of Yemen, Kurdistan, Iran, Afghanistan, India and of Bukhara, Crimea and the Caucasus, peoples, in some instances, lost to the Jews altogether because of historical forces, but some of whom have returned to Palestine since the formation of the state of Israel.

Among those whom Ben-Zvi describes are the peoples of Khair, the Pathans of Afghanistan, the Benjamites of Kurdistan and Persia, who, while they are no longer Jews, possess in their culture Jewish traditions and customs which are most interesting to those concerned with the formation of races and nationalities. There is too much of this in the Arab world to assume that difference of religion is the basis of hatred.

The attitude is political. It is characteristic of the monolithic concept of the state which Lenin advocated and Stalin implemented. Khrushchev, Nasser and all the lesser controllers of mankind are imitating this pattern. And under it, the state of Israel, a Western culture in an Eastern setting, might be overwhelmed. When Hitler was doing such things, the cry was "Genocide!" Who speaks of Genocide today?

LAFF-A-DAY

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SHE WAS A WISP of a girl, but how she could eat! As she gave her order to the waiter in the expensive restaurant, her companion mentally figured the cost and groaned.

"After the filet mignon and the fresh asparagus," she decided, "I'll have some crepes suzette and a bit of imported cheese." Then she turned to her escort and asked, "What do you suggest I wash it down with, darling?"

Glumly he suggested, "How about Lake Michigan?"

The most conceited rookie ever to go South with the Yankees got his chance in a game against the Cardinals at St. Petersburg, and promptly walked the first five men who faced him. Manager Casey Stengel motioned him to the showers and brought in another pitcher.

The rookie slammed his glove to the mound and demanded, "How do you like that? The ol' jerk takes me out while I got a no-hitter going!"

Routine for Poor Sleepers

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.
It has been stated that Thomas Alva Edison seldom slept longer than four hours a night. And Napoleon, it is said, required only three hours of sleep.

But I doubt that many of you are Edisons or Napoleons. These men were the exception. Most of you need about eight hours sleep every night. While some of you may get along very well with only seven, others will require nine or even ten.

If you are always tired when you arise each morning, you probably aren't getting enough shut-eye. Chances are you are among the millions of Americans who have difficulty getting to sleep.

We'll maybe I can help a bit. Let me offer a few suggestions on how to get to sleep easily and promptly.

Relaxation is the key to proper sleep. Begin by relaxing a full hour before you're ready to go to bed.

Wash, brush your teeth and complete all your ordinary bedtime routines well before turning in. Then, turn off the television set and get some soft, relaxing music on the radio or phonograph. String and woodwind instruments have the most soothing effect.

If you like, pick up a book. Select something you have read before, a dull book preferably. Next, get a glass of warm milk—beer or wine if you prefer them—and then plunk down in the softest easy chair in the house.

An hour of reading to a background of soft music should set the stage for a good night's sleep. If it doesn't, you might try autogestion and sort of hypnotize yourself to sleep.

Remain relaxed in your chair and gaze at some bright object in the room. You might try staring at the electric light for a while, repeating the following phrase over and over:

"I'm so tired; my eyes are heavy; they're getting heavier and heavier; oh, I'm so tired!"

You don't have to use these exact words, of course, but I'm sure you get the general idea. Keep telling yourself that you are tired, that your eyes are heavy and it might very well make you sleepy.

At least, it's worth a try.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON — No wonder if you're dizzy from what's happening in the Senate on labor legislation. It's a mish-mash. This is the background on a confusing situation.

In 1954 President Eisenhower, disturbed by disclosures on the misuse of employe benefit funds, asked an investigation. He got it. Three times since then a Senate Labor subcommittee has held hearings filling thousands of pages with testimony.

These subcommittees were headed in turn by Senators Ives (R-NY), Douglas (D-IL) and Kennedy (D-Mass.). Just before going home last year this subcommittee approved a measure — called the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill—which would do this:

Compel disclosure of the handling of employes' pensions and welfare funds to prevent their mishandling by employers, by employers and unions combined, or by unions.

Approval by the full Senate Labor Committee — necessary before the bill could go up to the full Senate for action — had to wait until this year. Congress came back in January.

On Jan. 23 President Eisenhower proposed a 12-point program of labor legislation. One point duplicated, and therefore approved, the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill upon which the full Labor Committee had not yet acted.

The rest of the Eisenhower program would add amendments — or make changes — in the 1947 Taft-Hartley law by imposing additional regulations on unions. But it also hit at crooked dealings between management and labor leaders at the expense of union members. Some business organizations called the Eisenhower program pro-labor.

Sen. Knowland of California, leader of the Senate Republicans and therefore the one who might have been expected to introduce the Eisenhower proposals, offered a big, omnibus bill of his own. He described his ideas as an attempt to assure democratic control of unions by their members.

Knowland, who's giving up his Senate seat to run for the governorship of California, would go beyond amending the Taft-Hartley law by adding some brand new ideas to it. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, leader of the Senate Democrats, has called Knowland's bill antiumion.

Then on March 26 and 27 the Senate Labor subcommittee headed by Kennedy began hearings on a number of proposals — which aides said would include those by Eisenhower and Knowland. But after those two days the subcommittee recessed for the Easter holidays and hasn't picked up yet where it left off.

Those hearings were not on the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill, which dealt with the protection of employes' benefit funds. That was still awaiting approval of the full committee, which only last Monday gave its blessing to the measure and sent it to the full Senate for action. The Senate scheduled consideration of it the next day.

Suddenly and unexpectedly, Knowland announced he would offer his bill as a series of amendments to the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill. Since what was in his bill went far beyond what was in the other, that provided a basketful of headaches.

Then Thursday the Eisenhower administration announced it would offer its 12-point program—which also went far beyond the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill — as an amendment to the latter.

Thus the Senate, which set out to consider the fairly narrow problem of protecting benefit funds, found itself confronted with proposals covering the whole broad field of labor-management relations.

Johnson hopes he'll get the Senate to approve just the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill and cast aside everything else for a later day. Maybe he'll succeed. If he doesn't, there probably won't be any labor legislation at all.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

● Asthma and Emotions
Q. Are diseases such as asthma ever due to emotional upsets?

A. In most cases of asthma and other allergic conditions, some type of sensitivity or allergy can be found. However, the healthy body functions as a unit with each organ working as smoothly as a well-oiled machine. Put sand in the machine or load a person with emotional gravel and things soon get out of kilter. This does not mean that asthma sufferers need treatment for mental troubles in order to get well but outlook or attitude can be an important factor in many diseases.

Q. Do children ever outgrow asthma?
A. Some may. Not so long ago two doctors reported that of 688 asthmatic children, about 75 per cent no longer had asthma by the time they reached teenage. A child specialist at Duke University checked 200 asthmatic youngsters. After two years treatment, about 80 per cent of the children had few symptoms or were greatly helped. The important thing to remember is that asthma can be very serious. Early treatment by a physician can prevent much suffering and may even save a life.

Individuals Important in Elections

To every Pickaway County citizen who is eligible to vote, it should be apparent that the near approach of the primary election date, May 6, should mean that he and she should make an honest effort to learn about the qualifications of candidates for the offices they seek.

Those who are to be nominated at this election become candidates for actual election to the positions they seek at the general election next November. Thus the proper exercise of the choice of candidates of either party, for election in November, lies in the hands of people who are individuals.

It seems unfortunate that so many adult individuals assume the position that their particular votes are negligible and it makes little difference whether or not they vote.

Every year it becomes evident that a lot of time and persuasion is necessary to make so many people realize that the total vote of any community is made up of individuals; that far too many have the same careless attitude. They fail to recognize their real responsibility as citizens. This is true not only in this community but all over our nation.

It often has happened that when a large number of people, in a community, or a state, decide on any occasion that their votes are not necessary or don't matter,

Did Russia Suffer 'Disaster'

There has been no confirmation of the story from Denmark that the dirtiest of all fall-out conditions followed recent nuclear tests by the Soviet Union as a result of a nuclear "disaster." But the story is interesting because of other information obtained through neutral listening posts such as Switzerland and Sweden.

The fall-out report had been partially confirmed by scientific measurements showing an unusual amount of radiation. It was assumed that Russia was the principal sufferer. The Denmark findings suggests that to be the case, though upper atmosphere currents carried the fall-out to other countries, including parts of the United States.

Whether Russia is frightened by the consequences of its own excessive testing or merely uses rumors to frighten the rest of the world for Moscow's purposes is in the

the result at the polls is sometimes damaging to the public interest.

Today we have close to 170 million people in our country with a total of 220 million expected by 1975. Most of us are in the cities and towns. As we mill about, rubbing elbows and jarring ribs, we may conclude not surprisingly — that as individual humans we count for less and less.

This isn't really true. No matter how many of us there are on the scene our country and our world can only be the sum of all the things we all do as individuals both in our private and our public lives.

In the tighter circle of family, friends and neighbors, we are always an irreplaceable link. We cannot die, move away, go to jail or even get a divorce without breaking the circle and leaving an unhappy void.

As we move through life, we play countless interlocking roles, from time to time dropping some and adding others. When somehow we step out of this complex web, or shatter a firm pattern all those we touch in our daily passage are affected. In greater or lesser measure, their lives will never be the same.

Thus it becomes every one of us to realize and act accordingly in fulfilling our civic responsibilities.

Certainly exercising our right to vote is one of the most important of these.

World's Fair Visitors Warned

By EDDY GILMORE
(For Hal Boyle)

BRUSSELS — Visitors to the 1958 world's fair should arrive equipped with plenty of cash, courage, patience and strong feet.

They'll need the money for Brussels high prices, a car a day for rides with the city's speed demon taxi drivers, patience for waiting in long lines at the fair for food, and strong feet to tramp the exhibition's 550 acres.

In November an American reserved a double room with bath for himself and wife at a good but not swanky hotel. He was asked to pay $40 francs—$10.80—in advance.

On April 4 he was notified that with an increase in prices authorized by the government, the room would now cost 963 francs —$19.26.

Brussels taxmen have new automobiles, mostly American and German, capable of great speed.

Just before the World's Fair opened April 17, the starting fare was increased from 7 to 10 francs—20 cents. There is a local ordinance compelling a taxi user to tip a minimum of 15 per cent. But if you stick to the minimum, you'll get more than a dirty glare.

Despite dozens of restaurants, there still are not enough. The restaurant at the American Pavilion has had a lineup every day since the fair's opening.

Prices range from 50 cents for a prime beef hamburger, $1.60 for Dixie style barbecued half spring chicken, and 20 cents for coffee.

At the fairgrounds there are four ways of visiting the exhibits: by motorized trains that rumble through the grounds, by motorized rickshaws, by two-man gondolas that glide along cables suspended over the heads of the crowd, and by foot.

No admission is charged at the various exhibits, but this does not hold for the sprawling amusement park section.

Buying a cocktail, whisky, gin or brandy is no problem in Brussels, but it's a costly process. Spirits are legal at private clubs and hotels.

Courtin' Main

It is becoming obvious that it would require more than rising farm prices to make some folks quit hating Ezra Benson.

"Cheer up, dear. Only twenty-three years to Social Security."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SHE WAS A WISP of a girl, but how she could eat! As she gave her order to the waiter in the expensive restaurant, her companion mentally figured the cost and groaned.

"After the filet mignon and the fresh asparagus," she decided, "I'll have some crepes suzette and a bit of imported cheese." Then she turned to her escort, and asked, "What do you suggest I wash it down with, darling?"

Glumly he suggested, "How about Lake Michigan?"

The most conceited rookie ever to go South with the Yankees got his chance in a game against the Cardinals at St. Petersburg, and promptly walked the first five men who faced him. Manager Casey Stengel motioned him to the showers and brought in another pitcher.

The rookie slammed his glove to the mound and demanded, "How do you like that? The ol' jerk takes me out while I got a no-hitter going!"

Routine for Poor Sleepers

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

It has been stated that Thomas Alva Edison seldom slept longer than four hours a night. And Napoleon, it is said, required only three hours of sleep.

But I doubt that many of you are Edisons or Napoleons. These men were the exception. Most of you need about eight hours sleep every night. While some of you may get along very well with only seven, others will require nine or even ten.

If you are always tired when you arise each morning, you probably aren't getting enough shut-eye.

Chances are you are among the millions of Americans who have difficulty getting to sleep.

Well maybe I can help a bit. Let me offer a few suggestions on how to get to sleep easily and promptly.

Relaxation is the key to proper sleep. Begin by relaxing a full hour before you're ready to go to bed.

Wash, brush your teeth and complete all your ordinary bedtime routines well before turning in.

Then, turn off the television set and get some soft, relaxing music on the radio or phonograph. String and woodwind instruments have the most soothing effect.

If you like, pick up a book. Select something you have read before, a dull book preferably.

Next, get a glass of warm milk—beer or wine if you prefer them—and then plunk down in the softest easy chair in the house.

An hour of reading to a background of soft music should set the stage for a good night's sleep. If it doesn't, you might try autosuggestion and sort of hypnotize yourself to sleep.

Remain relaxed in your chair and gaze at some bright object in the room. You might try staring at the electric light for a while, repeating the following phrase over and over:

"I'm so tired; my eyes are heavy, they're getting heavier and heavier; oh, I'm so tired!"

You don't have to use these exact words, of course, but I'm sure you get the general idea. Keep telling yourself that you are tired, that your eyes are heavy and it might very well make you sleepy.

At least, it's worth a try.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON — No wonder if you're dizzy from what's happening in the Senate on labor legislation. It's a mish-mash. This is the background on a confusing situation.

In 1954 President Eisenhower, disturbed by disclosures on the misuse of employee benefit funds, asked an investigation. He got it. Three times since then a Senate Labor subcommittee has held hearings filling thousands of pages with testimony.

These subcommittees were headed in turn by Senators Ives (R-N.Y.), Douglas (D-Ill.) and Kennedy (D-Mass.). Just before going home last year this subcommittee approved a measure — called the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill—which would do this:

Compel disclosure of the handling of employees' pensions and welfare funds to prevent their mishandling by employers, by employers and unions combined, or by unions.

Approval by the full Senate Labor Committee — necessary before the bill could go up to the full Senate for action — had to wait until this year. Congress came back in January.

On Jan. 23 President Eisenhower proposed a 12-point program of labor legislation. One point duplicated, and therefore approved, the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill upon which the full Labor Committee had not yet acted.

The rest of the Eisenhower program would add amendments or make changes — in the 1947 Taft-Hartley law — by imposing additional regulations on unions. But it also hit at crooked dealings between management and labor leaders at the expense of union members. Some business organizations called the Eisenhower program pro-labor.

Sen. Knowland of California, leader of the Senate Republicans and therefore the one who might have been expected to introduce the Eisenhower proposals, offered a big, omnibus bill of his own. He described his ideas as an attempt to assure democratic control of unions by their members.

Knowland, who's giving up his Senate seat to run for the governorship of California, would go beyond amending the Taft-Hartley law by adding some brand new ideas to it. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, leader of the Senate Democrats, has called Knowland's bill anti-union.

Then on March 26 and 27 the Senate Labor subcommittee headed by Kennedy began hearings on a number of proposals — which aides said would include those by Eisenhower and Knowland. But after those two days the subcommittee recessed for the Easter holidays and hasn't picked up yet where it left off.

Those hearings were not on the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill, which dealt with the protection of employees' benefit funds. That was still awaiting approval of the full committee, which only last Monday gave its blessing to the measure and sent it to the full Senate for action. The Senate scheduled consideration of it the next day.

Suddenly and unexpectedly, Knowland announced he would offer his bill as a series of amendments to the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill. Since what was in his bill went far beyond what was in the other, that provided a basketful of headaches.

Then Thursday the Eisenhower administration announced it would offer its 12-point program—which also went far beyond the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill — as an amendment to the latter.

Thus the Senate, which set out to consider the fairly narrow problem of protecting benefit funds, found itself confronted with proposals covering the whole broad field of labor-management relations.

Johnson hopes he'll get the Senate to approve just the Ives-Douglas-Kennedy bill and cast aside everything else for a later day. Maybe he'll succeed. If he doesn't, there probably won't be any labor legislation at all.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

● Asthma and Emotions

Q. Are diseases such as asthma ever due to emotional upsets?

A. In most cases of asthma and other allergic conditions, some type of sensitivity or allergy can be found. However, the healthy body functions as a unit with each organ working as smoothly as a well-oiled machine. Put sand in the machine or load a person with emotional gravel and things soon get out of kilter. This does not mean that asthma sufferers need treatment for mental troubles in order to get well but outlook or attitude can be an important factor in many diseases.

Q. Do children ever outgrow asthma?

A. Some may. Not so long ago two doctors reported that of 688 asthmatic children, about 75 per cent no longer had asthma by the time they reached teenage. What Is the Fate of Israel?

By George Sokolsky

The state of Israel this year celebrates its tenth anniversary. At this time, as Prince Faisal has said, the Arabs are more devoted than ever to the destruction of Israel. Incidentally, they also plan to destroy the independence of Lebanon which is about half Moslem and half Christian.

From the Arab standpoint, the issue is simple: Israel represents a Western European enclave in the Arabic world. It does not matter that most of the Jewish inhabitants of Israel come from Eastern European, Africa and Asia countries; the prevailing culture, the political and social systems, the educational methods, the trade and commerce are Western European in all their manifestations.

If Israel has 10 years more of life, its influence upon the youth of surrounding countries will be enormous. Nasser, who seeks to build an Arab empire, and who may succeed with the help of the United States and Soviet Russia competing against each other for his favor, desires no extraneous cultural or political force in his area.

Nasser will only compromise concerning Israel temporarily for consideration. In a word, if the United States pays for his dam, as it appears that he is planning to do one way or another, he might, upon request, let up on Israel for a time. From Soviet Russia, Israel can expect no aid. Khrushchev is pursuing the anti-Jewish policy which Stalin developed in his latter years, a policy that reverts to the concept of an utterly monolithic society of the Pan-Slavism of Czarist days.

Whatever those who do not like Jews believe, they do struggle everywhere for human liberty. In the Bolshevik Revolution, it was Jews, Trotsky, Kamenev, Zinoviev, who fought against the tyranny of Stalin and gave their lives for that fight. Similarly, the Jewish writers in Soviet Russia were the ones who have been somewhat critical of the regime, even if their voices were like a whisper in a tornado. Who knows which of them remains alive?

This kind of independent thinking, Khrushchev does not need and although he boasts of a Jewish son-in-law or some such relative, he has made it clear that he wants no independence of thought, that he wants a tight, channelled organization in which men do as they are told and he does all the thinking. Jews do not lend themselves readily to such a concept of life. If they are at times out of step, it is because they are compelled by an ancient tradition to speak up. Khrushchev does not need them any more than Nasser needs them or Hitler needed them. Independence is not a desirable quality among dictators. This, rather than religious differences or the Arab refugee problem, is the basis for the antagonism toward Israel. It will not readily die down and yet there are too many centuries of Jewish life in the Arab world to permit religious difference to be used as a reason for Arab antagonism toward Jews. For instance, for centuries there were Jewish principalities in Arab countries. Ben-Zvi, President of Israel, has written an ethnological and historical account of this intermingling of peoples, entitled, "The Exiled and The Redeemed." This book is neither propaganda nor apology; it is a scientific work.

Particularly interesting are the Jews of Yemen, Kurdistan, Iran, Afghanistan, India and of Bukhara, Crimea and the Caucasus, peoples, in some instances, lost to the Jews altogether because of historical forces, but some of whom have returned to Palestine since the formation of the state of Israel. Among those whom Ben-Zvi describes are the peoples of Khazaria, the Pathans of Afghanistan, the Benjamites of Kurdistan and Persia, who, while they are no longer Jews, possess in their culture Jewish traditions and customs which are most interesting to those concerned with the formation of races and nationalities. There is too much of this in the Arab world to assume that difference of religion is the basis of hatred.

The attitude is political. It is characteristic of the monolithic concept of the state which Lenin advocated and Stalin implemented. Khrushchev, Nasser and all the lesser controllers of mankind are imitating this pattern. And under it, the state of Israel, a Western culture in an Eastern setting, might be overwhelmed. When Hitler was doing such things, the cry was "Genocide!" Who speaks of Genocide today?

God Delivers His People

PHARAOH AT LAST ALLOWS THE PEOPLE OF ISRAEL TO LEAVE EGYPT

Scripture—Exodus 11:1-15:18; 12:21-36; 13:17-21; 14:9-15, 21-28; 15:1-2.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE SCRIPTURE readings assigned to this lesson are so many that to save space we shall follow the printed text suggested by Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, editor of Peloubet's Notes.

"And the Lord said unto Moses, Yet will I bring one plague more upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt; afterwards he will let you go, hence: when he shall let you go, he shall surely thrust you out hence altogether."—Exodus 11:1.
This last plague was to be the death of the firstborn of every Egyptian, from the Pharaoh down to the maidservants; but no Hebrew child would be harmed.

"Then Moses called for all the elders of Israel, and said unto them, Draw out and take you a lamb according to your families, and kill the passover.

"And ye shall take a bunch of hyssop"—agreed by most critics to be a species of plant common in Palestine, an aromatic plant with a long straight stalk and leaves—"and dip it in the blood that is in the basin, and strike

Pharaoh said: "Rise up, and get you forth from among my people, both ye and the children of Israel; and go, serve thy Lord, as ye have said."—Exodus 12:31.

Thus the children of Israel were freed from their tyrants, and began their journey with their flocks and with much treasure which was given or lent by the Egyptians.

God led His people "not through the land of the Philistines, although that was near," for fear of war which they were not prepared to fight, but "through the way of the wilderness of the Red sea. . . And they took their journey from Succoth, and encamped in Etham, in the edge of the wilderness. And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them by the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light."—Exodus 12:17-21.

Pharaoh repented then that he had let the people go, and he sent his armies after them. When the Red sea was reached and the Israelites knew that Pharaoh's army was coming after them, they blamed Moses and Aaron for bringing them from Egypt to die. Moses, however, was commanded by God to stretch forth his hand over the sea, "and the Lord caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind. . . and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided. And the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea upon dry ground."—Exodus 14:22.

The pursuing Egyptians started across, but Moses again lifted his hand and the waters returned, destroying the Egyptian armies. "Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the Lord, and spake, saying, I will sing unto the Lord, for He hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider hath He thrown into the sea. The Lord is my strength and song, and He is become my salvation: He is my God, and I will prepare Him an habitation: my father's God, and I will exalt Him."—Exodus 15:1-2.

After this slaughter of the firstborn of the Egyptians, the Israelites were freed from their tyrants, and began their journey with their flocks and with much treasure which was given or lent by the Egyptians.

Pharaoh said: "Rise up, and get you forth from among my people, both ye and the children of Israel; and go, serve thy Lord, as ye have said."—Exodus 12:31.

Thus the children of Israel were freed from their tyrants, and began their journey with their flocks and with much treasure which was given or lent by the Egyptians.

God led His people "not through the land of the Philistines, although that was near," for fear of war which they were not prepared to fight, but "through the way of the wilderness of the Red sea. . . And they took their journey from Succoth, and encamped in Etham, in the edge of the wilderness. And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them by the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light."—Exodus 12:17-21.

Pharaoh repented then that he had let the people go, and he sent his armies after them. When the Red sea was reached and the Israelites knew that Pharaoh's army was coming after them, they blamed Moses and Aaron for bringing them from Egypt to die. Moses, however, was commanded by God to stretch forth his hand over the sea, "and the Lord caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind. . . and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided. And the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea upon dry ground."—Exodus 14:22.

The pursuing Egyptians started across, but Moses again lifted his hand and the waters returned, destroying the Egyptian armies. "Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the Lord, and spake, saying, I will sing unto the Lord, for He hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider hath He thrown into the sea. The Lord is my strength and song, and He is become my salvation: He is my God, and I will prepare Him an habitation: my father's God, and I will exalt Him."—Exodus 15:1-2.

After this slaughter of the firstborn of the Egyptians, the Israelites were freed from their tyrants, and began their journey with their flocks and with much treasure which was given or lent by the Egyptians.

Pharaoh said: "Rise up, and get you forth from among my people, both ye and the children of Israel; and go, serve thy Lord, as ye have said."—Exodus 12:31.

Sen. Kennedy Believes Dems Assured 'Needed' Leadership

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Real leadership is urgently needed again in Washington, says U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy. And he thinks Democrats should "prove our capacity for competent, responsible leadership."

"This nation now enters a period of crisis of greater proportion than any we have ever faced," the Massachusetts senator told an Ohio Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner audience here Thursday night.

Kennedy, delayed by Senate floor debate in Washington, arrived more than five hours late for the dinner. But most guests, who paid $50 for their $4 dinner, remained to hear the talk.

"We are confronted with a deepening crisis in world affairs, in our relations with our allies, in our prestige with uncommitted nations, in our military, scientific, political and economic race with the Soviets," Kennedy said.

"More than five million workers are unemployed," he said. "Millions of others are working only a few days a week. Millions more are being forced to leave the farm. In June, hundreds of thousands of college and high school graduates will be walking the streets looking for work."

Although he termed the present recession deeper than any since

Higher College Tuition Is Urged

COLUMBUS (AP)—Colleges should be run on a paying or break-even basis with tuition set to cover operating costs. That's the opinion of Dr. Wallace R. Brode, science adviser to Secretary of State Dulles and president of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

The Washington, D. C., educator spoke at Ohio State University here Thursday. He said that paying college operating costs from tuition would mean raising to about five times the present tuition for state or tax-supported institutions and about double the fees for most private schools.

PHARAOH AT LAST ALLOWS THE PEOPLE OF ISRAEL TO LEAVE EGYPT

Scripture—Exodus 11:1-18; 12:1-36; 13:17-21; 14:9-15, 21-28; 15:1-2.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE SCRIPTURE readings assigned to this lesson are so many that to print them all would fill the printed text suggested by Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, editor of Peloubet's Notes.

"And the Lord said unto Moses, Yet will I bring one plague more upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt; afterwards he will let you go, hence; when he shall let you go, he shall surely thrust you out hence altogether."—Exodus 11:1.

This last plague was to be the death of the firstborn of every Egyptian, from the Pharaoh down to the maidservants; but no Hebrew child would be harmed. Then Moses called for all the elders of Israel, and said unto them, Draw out and take you a lamb according to your families, and kill the passover.

"And ye shall take a bunch of hyssop"—agreed by most critics to be a species of plant common in Palestine, an aromatic plant with a long straight stalk and leaves—"and dip it in the blood that is in the basin, and strike the lintel, and the two side posts."

Then "the Lord will pass over the door, and will not suffer the destroyer to come in unto your houses to smite you."—Exodus 12:23.

Thus was established the Jewish Passover which the Lord commanded be kept every year thereafter in the Jewish month of Nisan (April). It is still observed rigidly 3,400 years later.

The Hebrews were told that when their children asked what was meant by this service, they should tell them: "It is the sacrifice of the Lord's passover, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when He smote the Egyptians, and delivered our houses. And the people bowed the head and worshipped. And the children of Israel went away, and did as the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron so did they."—Exodus 12:27.

After this slaughter of the firstborn of the Egyptians, the Pharaoh said: "Rise up, and get you forth from among my people, both ye and the children of Israel; and go, serve thy Lord, as ye have said."—Exodus 12:31.

Thus the children of Israel were freed from their tyrants, and began their journey with their flocks and with much treasure which was given or lent by the Egyptians.

God led His people "not through the land of the Philistines, although that was near," for fear of war which they were not prepared to fight, but "through the way of the wilderness of the Red sea. . . And they took their journey from Succoth, and encamped in Etham, in the edge of the wilderness. And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light."—Exodus 13:21-22.

Pharaoh repented then that he had let the people go, and he sent his armies after them. When the Red sea was reached and the Israelites knew that Pharaoh's army was coming after them, they blamed Moses and Aaron for bringing them from Egypt to die. Moses, however, was commanded by God to stretch forth his hand over the sea, "and the Lord caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind. . . and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided. And the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea upon dry ground."—Exodus 14:22.

The pursuing Egyptians started across, but Moses again lifted his hand and the waters returned, destroying the Egyptian armies.

"Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the Lord, and spake, saying, I will sing unto the Lord, for He hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider hath He thrown into the sea. The Lord is my strength and song, and He is become my salvation: He is my God, and I will prepare Him an habitation; my father's God, and I will exalt Him."—Exodus 15:1-2.

Home Economics Festival Sponsored by Homemakers

A suitable prelude for National Home Demonstration week was the Home Economics Festival held Thursday at St. Philip's Parish Hall. The 11 homemaker clubs in the county cooperated in presenting this open-house program reflecting ingenuity and learning in all phases of homemaking.

In charge of registration were Mrs. Harold Gulick and Mrs. Winifred Bidwell, County Treasurer and Secretary.

At noontime the center of fellowship was an International Smorgasbord. A large table had 12 Country divisions complete with the flag, typical center-piece, and Food. The countries represented were Mexico, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, England, Hungary, France, Ireland, Italy, Switzerland, China, and Germany.

An interesting supplement to this International Food Table was the display of Mrs. Clifford Hedges' collection of cups and saucers from many countries. This was arranged by Mrs. Wm. Defenbaugh, County International Chairman for Extension Service.

Mrs. Judson Beougher, County President, extended greetings and reviewed important scheduled events. With the help of Mrs. Dick Tootle, accompanist, she led the group in singing the National Homemaker Song—"Ever Onward". Mrs. David Luckhart was mistress of ceremonies for a varied review of fashions. As the beginning feature, "Old Looks" were modeled by Mrs. Myron Schelb, Miss Martha Warner, Mrs. Harold Schein, Mrs. Earl Liff, and Mrs. Wilbur Greenlee.

Through courtesy of Sharffs, many new, different, and striking "New Looks" were modeled by Mrs. Liff, Mrs. Schein, Mrs. Schelb, Mrs. Tootle, Mrs. Melvin Steck, Mrs. Jesse Peart, Mrs. Dalton DeLong, Mrs. Allen Ankrom, Mrs. Wm. Thomas, Mrs. Lewis Dean, JoAnn Spice, and Nola Rader.

For the "made-at home" fashions the first presentation was Mother-daughter Easter suits modeled by Mrs. Donald Maxson and Melanie Maxon. Mention was made in the narration that for the Easter Parade, Mrs. Maxson had also made her husband's shirt and sons Donnie Jr., and Lonnie suits. Other homemaker sewing skills were modeled by Mrs. Jacob Justice, Mrs. Emma Hamilton, Mrs. Charles Mills, Mrs. Russell Yaple, and Mrs. Nellie Creighton.

A look of future Home Economics Festival cooperators was the on-stage introduction of the several young girls and boys present.

The concluding portion of this Spring Festival was a summary-recognition by the County Agent, Mrs. Leora Sayre. This included the announcement that from all pertinent angles of judging that the Duval Homemaker Club was The Grand Champion for the 1957-58 activity year. The Wayne area rated a close second.

Mrs. Anne Raider Speaker For Girl Graduate Reception

Girls from all county schools and Circleville High School attended the Girl Graduate Reception which was sponsored by the Circleville Business and Professional Women Club and held in the Atwater School last night.

Approximately 200 persons attended the reception. Schools represented were: Circleville, Ashville, Deer Creek, Jackson, Monroe, Perry, New Holland, Pickaway, Salt Creek, Scioto and Walnut. Girls from the Darby High School were invited but unable to attend.

The social room was decorated with arrangements of white carnations and yellow snapdragons. Arrangements of Yellow and white mums outlined the stage. The reception table with a lace cloth was centered with arrangement of carnations and snapdragons, flanked by candles.

Mrs. George Neff, president, welcome and introduced the girls representing the various schools. She then introduced Miss Joyce Troutman and Miss Judy Ansel, students of Capital University.

Miss Troutman presented two vocal solos, "Morning" and "One Kiss." She was accompanied by Miss Ansel.

Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh was introduced and welcomed the girls, guests and members. She spoke of Spring and compared it with the beginning of the girls' lives following graduation. Mrs. Defenbaugh then introduced Mrs. Anne Raider, a mother of three, a successful homemaker and a success at WBNS-TV.

Mrs. Raider opened her talk by welcoming the girls. She told of the time she was in Circleville for the Pumpkin Show, to judge Little Miss Pumpkin Queen. She reminisced of being arrested for illegal parking.

She told of her career, always yearning for the stage. She sang in New York; was a model for Powers and Conover. In 1953 she was on radio once a week with a Fashion Unit. Then came TV. When she first moved to Columbus, she started on TV with an exercise program, then to other programs and now is sponsored by Pennington Bread, "Appointment With Anne Raider."

Mrs. Raider gave some tips on fashions, beauty and makeup. She told of how people are impressed with your first impressions. She said "every woman is attractive, play up your good points—minimize your bad." Good grooming is important. Your voice is also just as important.

Mrs. Raider said "you never cease to grow, there is always something new to learn. Don't have a closed mind—learn a little about everything. She concluded her program by giving Fashion's ten Commandments.

Annual All-County Prom Planned by Circleville Elks

An estimated 700 youngsters soon will receive invitations to the annual All-County Prom to be held in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum the evening of Friday, May 9.

Circleville Elks Lodge, sponsor of the annual formal dance, uses the affair as its contribution to National Youth Day. The lodge charges no admission to its guests and extends formal invitations to all high school junior and senior classmen in all city and rural schools in Pickaway County.

The annual All-County Prom has become a standard entry on several social calendars. Some of the rural schools scheduled their annual junior-senior banquets to coincide with Prom night so that the youngsters may go to the dance after their social functions in their individual schools.

The 15-piece Dick Welsh Orchestra has been placed under contract by the lodge for this dance which will be held from 8 p. m. until midnight.

Complete false ceiling in the coliseum is being planned as the center of extensive decorations for the affair.

The coliseum basketball floor will be reserved as the dancing area with a band shell and platform at one end of the area. Tables and chairs for the guests will be set up in the temporary bleacher portion of the main coliseum floor.

Members of the Elks lodge and their wives will serve as chaperons for the evening.

A soft drink concession will be manned in the coliseum by a Washington Twp. group.

An impressive list of door prizes is being secured for presentation during an intermission at the dance.

During another intermission, the lodge will present $25 Savings Bonds to the three winners of this year's Youth Leadership Contest.

Circleville Elks who are playing major roles in preparations for the dance are:

James Grant, general chairman; Robert Moyer, procurement of music; Grant and Robert Seward, decorations; Judson Lanman and Carl Bennett, after-prom details; Winfield Koch, concessions, hat check and public address system; Joe Bell and David McDonald, door prizes; Don Hill and Gene Barthelmas, bandstand; George Young, presentation of door prizes.

Invitational tickets for all youngsters will be relayed to them through administrators of their individual schools.

Following the dinner the hostesses presented a game entitled "The magic yes!" Each member was given a certain number of beans and the person saying yes received a bean from the person they were talking with. Winner of the contest at the close of the evening was Mrs. Jerald Easter.

A white elephant sale was held with Mrs. Harold Whitmore acting as the auctioneer. Items presented for the sale ranged from costume jewelry to baby booties, a Christmas record to ash trays, embroidered scarf to salt and pepper shakers.

Progressive bingo followed the auction. The winners of the final round of bingo were: Mrs. Easter, Miss Barbara Caskey, Miss Marilyn Francis, Mrs. Carl Rihl and Mrs. William Brown.

Old Hawaiian Muumuu Style Now Popular with Teen Set

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A fashion that's been going strong for 100 years in Hawaii is going to the wardrobes of today's teen-agers. It's the muumuu, a comfortable loosely built gown, free of zippers, buttons and snaps. Just pull it over your head and swimsuit, wear it lounging around the house, wear it at your next record party.

For summer you'll be right in style if you make your muumuu of some of the delightful floral prints in sun-kissed or rose arbor hues. Make it of any lightweight fabric, suitable to the conditions in which it will live. Make it of silk for summer evening parties, giving the chemise a run for its success. Make it of cotton for the beach or lounging.

How to make it? It's the one easy sewing project you could embark on, say the sewing center strategists. Use a commercial pattern, if you like. Or, if you are an old hand with the needle, try your hand at it without a pattern.

Start by measuring from shoulder to bottom of hem, adding eight inches for a double hem. Multiply this measurement by three (one length for the front of the garment and two lengths for the back.) Add 3/4 yards for sleeves. One-half yard of contrasting fabric will be needed for yoke and cuffs.

Tall girls might like the classic puff sleeve, with an elastic strip inside the cuff-top to permit sleeve to be worn three-quarters or above elbow length, admitting a maximum of air circulation. Short girls may prefer to omit the sleeve entirely.

Cut down the center of the front fabric length on the straight of the goods. Front side seams are tapered outward from armhole to hem. The two lengths for the back are likewise tapered. The major segments of the muumuu body resemble four pie-shaped pieces, with an off-size bite taken out at the yoke line, and with one edge of each on the straight of the material.

The gathering of the body of the muumuu at the yoke line is easily done by setting the sewing machine for a long stitch which is easily gathered up. Arrange front fullness to fall freely over bust. Back gathers are distributed across center back.

Let your imagination run riot if you like when it comes to decorative stitches on the yoke. Try a bold domino pattern or satin stitch a graceful vine and leaves. Cut a fabric motif and applique to the yoke. If you do the decorative stitching at the yoke, line your muumuu yoke with pella.

On the flight to Brussels we left Idlewild around 5 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, and no sooner were we off the ground than the hospitable Belgian crew started serving cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. This went on for a couple of hours, after which the dinner service began.

With little or no sleep our group of American correspondents was a herded off the plane shortly before noon (Brussels time) and rushed to an elaborate official luncheon, where we were expected to be not only bright but also hungry, although it was by now only 6 a. m. (New York time.)

We were just getting nicely adjusted to this cosmopolitan life when there we were, back on the plane blonde for home, being waked up and fed breakfast at midnight (New York time) because it was 6 a. m. (Brussels time) and we were getting ready to land at Idlewild.

Home Economics Festival Sponsored by Homemakers

A suitable prelude for National Home Demonstration week was the Home Economics Festival held Thursday at St. Philip's Parish Hall. The 11 homemaker clubs in the county cooperated in presenting this open-house program reflecting ingenuity and learning in all phases of homemaking.

In charge of registration were Mrs. Harold Gulick and Mrs. Winifred Bidwell, County Treasurer and Secretary.

At noontime the center of fellowship was an International Smorgas-board. A large table had 12 Country divisions complete with the flag, typical center-piece, and food. The countries represented were Mexico, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, England, Hungary, France, Ireland, Italy, Switzerland, China, and Germany.

An interesting supplement to this International Food Table was the display of Mrs. Clifford Hedges' collection of cups and saucers from many countries. This was arranged by Mrs. Wm. Defenbaugh, County International Chairman for Extension Service.

Mrs. Judson Beougher, County President, extended greetings and reviewed important scheduled events. With the help of Mrs. Dick Tootle, accompanist, she led the group in singing the National Homemaker Song—"Ever Onward".

Mrs. David Luckhart was mistress of ceremonies for a varied review of fashions. As the beginning feature, "Old Looks" were modeled by Mrs. Myron Schelb, Miss Martha Warner, Mrs. Harold Schein, Mrs. Earl Liff, and Mrs. Wilbur Greenlee.

Through courtesy of Sharffs, many new, different, and striking "New Looks" were modeled by Mrs. Liff, Mrs. Schein, Mrs. Schelb, Mrs. Tootle, Mrs. Melvin Steek, Mrs. Jesse Peart, Mrs. Dalton DeLong, Mrs. Allen Ankrom, Mrs. Wm. Thomas, Mrs. Lewis Dean, JoAnn Spice, and Nola Rader.

For the "made-at home" fashions the first presentation was Mother-daughter Easter suits modeled by Mrs. Donald Maxson and Melanie Maxon. Mention was made in the narration that for the Easter Parade, Mrs. Maxson had also made her husband's shirt and sons' shirts, and Loni suits. Other homemaker sewing skills were modeled by Mrs. Jacob Justice, Mrs. Emma Hamilton, Mrs. Charles Mills, Mrs. Russell Yaple, and Mrs. Nellie Creighton.

A look of future Home Economic Festival cooperators was the on-stage introduction of the several young girls and boys present.

The concluding portion of this Spring Festival was a summary-recognition by the County Agent, Mrs. Leora Sayre. This included the announcement that from all pertinent angles of judging that the Duval Homemaker Club was the Grand Champion for the 1957-58 activity year. The Wayne area rated a close second.

Mrs. Anne Raider Speaker For Girl Graduate Reception

Girls from all county schools and Circleville High School attended the Girl Graduate Reception which was sponsored by the Circleville Business and Professional Women Club and held in the Atwater School last night.

Approximately 200 persons attended the reception. Schools represented were: Circleville, Ashville, Deer Creek, Jackson, Monroe, Perry, New Holland, Pickaway, Salter Creek, Scioto and Walnut. Girls from the Darby High School were invited but unable to attend.

The social room was decorated with arrangements of white carnations and yellow snapdragons. Arrangements of yellow and white mums outlined the stage. The reception table with a lace cloth was centered with arrangement of carnations and snapdragons, flanked by candles.

Mrs. George Neff, president, welcome and introduced the girls representing the various schools. She then introduced Miss Joyce Troutman and Miss Judy Ansel, students of Capital University. Miss Troutman presented two vocal solos, "Morning" and "One Kiss." She was accompanied by Miss Ansel.

Age of High Speed Flight Upsetting Writer's Schedule

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

This age of high speed flight is getting a little hard on the old-fashioned human body.

I've just returned from a flying trip to the Brussels World's Fair, and although I'm back at my desk in New York, I'm still eating and sleeping on Brussels time. I get sleepy at 6 p.m.—that's midnight in Brussels, I'm ready for breakfast at 2 a.m., because by then it's 8 o'clock in Europe.

It's all very confusing, and likely to become more so as the jet age progresses.

On the flight to Brussels we left Idlewild around 5 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, and no sooner were we off the ground than the hospitable Belgian crew started serving cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. This went on for a couple of hours, after which the dinner service began.

Giants Move Fails To Alter Victory Formula

Wins Close Ones Late Is Plan Still Used By Frisco Outfit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The San Francisco Giants are following the same formula that paid off with 1951 and 1954 National League pennants for the club in New York: Win the close ones, and win 'em late.

In '51, the Giants led the league in one-run victories, took the race into a playoff and won by coming from behind with one out in the last of the ninth, for a 5-4 decision in the final game.

In '54, they won better than half their close games, and came up with a hero a day in the late innings.

At the moment, the Giants are hanging on, half a game behind the front-running Chicago Cubs, with last-inning heroics from Daryl Spencer.

Wednesday, he drove in the clinching run by beating out an infield hit for a 6-5 victory over the Cardinals with two out in the ninth.

The Cubs were less subtle, smashing the Los Angeles Dodgers 15-2. Lee Walls, a kid who hit six home runs all last year, drove in eight runs by belting three homers over the left field screen in the Coliseum.

Hank Aaron cracked two solo home runs as the Milwaukee Braves beat Cincinnati 6-2, and Pittsburgh rapped Philadelphia 7-4 in night games.

Warren Spahn gained his 226th victory for the Braves a day after his 37th birthday. He had a shut-out for six, finished with a seven-hitter, Brooks Lawrence lost it.

Pittsburgh's Bob Friend was two outs from a shutout, then needed Elroy Face's relief after Richie Ashburn's two-run triple, and Bob Bowman's two-run homer.

Mr. Nice Guy is last in the American League.

For months now, genial Al Lopez has been confident that this is the year his Chicago White Sox will win the pennant. He had the pitching to prevent a repeat of those disastrous 14 defeats in 22 games against the New York Yankees that killed Sox hopes last season.

So what happens? After nine games, his big staff has been able to win only two—and they haven't even had to face the Yankees yet. The Big Four look like this: Billy Pierce (0-2), Dick Donovan (0-2), Early Wynn (1-1) and Jim Wilson (1-1). Only Pierce, last year's 20-game winner, has managed a complete game.

Wilson, the veteran right-hander, didn't last three innings Thursday as the Cleveland Indians cuffed the White Sox 6-4 for their fifth straight defeat.

Kansas City reclaimed second place from Detroit by beating the Tigers 7-2 and climbing within a game of the Yankees, who were rained out at Washington. Boston won two straight for the first time defeating Baltimore 4-3 in 10 innings.

Kansas City failed to hit a home run for the first time since opening day, but the ambitious A's slugged loser Bob Shaw and two relievers for 12 hits.

Dick Gernert's pinch single scored the winner for the Red Sox off reliever Billy O'Dell.

Indians Hope Night Tilt To Attract Fans

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians hope the first night game of the season at Municipal Stadium tonight will help change that empty seat look.

Ray Narleski (1-1) gets the pitching call for the Indians, who now have won two straight for the first time this season. For the Detroit Tigers in the opener of a four-game series, it will be Jim Bunning, whom Narleski topped in the Motor City last Sunday, 4-2.

Only 1,763 fans attended Thursday's game when the Indians swept the two-game series against the slumping Chicago White Sox, 6-4. Russ Nixon and Minnie Minoso hit home runs and Chico Carrasquel delivered a two-run double in the third inning when the Indians boosted their lead to 5-0.

Dick Tomaneck started for the Tribe and looked terrific in the first four innings when all he yielded was one base on balls. With one out in the fifth, though, the Sox tagged him for four straight hits and added two more off relief hurler Don Mossi for all four of their runs.

Mossi blanked the White Sox the rest of the way with two hits in 4 2/3 innings to pick up his first victory against one loss.

Akins Given Nod In Martinez Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Virgil Akins of St. Louis today was made the 13-10 betting choice to beat Vince Martinez of Paterson, N. J., in their world welterweight title bout at the St. Louis Arena, June 6.

The two finalists in the welterweight elimination tournament each will receive $30,000 for the 15-rounder which will be broadcast and telecast.

The date and site for the championship fight was announced Thursday by the International Boxing Club and promoter Emory Jones of St. Louis.

Kenyon College Signs Pflieger as Coach

Pflieger, a native of Columbus and a 1948 graduate of Otterbein College, will also coach lacrosse and will be assistant director of physical education at Kenyon.

Ohio State To Be Slow In Picking New Cage Pilot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There will be some delay before Ohio State University names a new head basketball coach to succeed Floyd Stahl who resigned.

Soon after the athletic board accepted Stahl's resignation Wednesday night, ending his eight-year reign, Prof. Roderick D. Barden departed for Sweden.

The professor is chairman of the athletic board and of a four-man screening committee named to check the qualifications of aspirants to the coaching job.

University officials said they had no idea just how long Prof. Barden would be abroad on personal business, but they indicated little or nothing would be done about filling the job until he returns.

Meanwhile, the first man to formally apply for the berth is

Ashville Gains Tourney Berth In District

Ashville's baseball Broncos clinched a berth in the Central District Class A Tournament by posting a hardfought 13-11 win over Scioto yesterday at Ashville.

Ashville jumped off to a 6-0 lead in the first inning, but Scioto roared back to go ahead, 10-7, in the third frame.

After that it was a new ball game and both teams battled furiously for a definite advantage. The Broncos finally won out by notching six runs in the final innings.

Dick Wilcox, who hurled the Broncos to victory Wednesday over Jackson, came on in the third to stop the Scioto rally and gain credit for the win. Jim McNeal was the starting Ashville pitcher.

SANDERS hurled the losing effort for Scioto.

Bob Featheringham was the slugging star for Ashville, collecting a homerun and double. Gary Clark smacked a homer and triple for Scioto.

Leftfielder Jim Brown, second baseman Jim Gregg, first baseman Don Rathburn and catcher Bill Neal turned in an outstanding defensive game for the Broncos. Rathburn also had three runs batted in.

Darby Makes Tournament

Darby's Trojans earned a berth in the Central District Class A Baseball Tournament by virtue of a forfeit win over Walnut Twp. yesterday.

Ashville is the other Pickaway County entry in the tourney, both teams remaining undefeated in local loop play. The two squads are slated to meet for the county championship after district play.

According to umpires, the Walnut squad arrived late for yesterday's game. The officials awarded the game to Darby due to this infraction of the rules.

THE Red and Black fortunes today will depend greatly on the performances of Junior Denny and Bill Johnson, the Tigers' two most dependable point-getters. Denny specializes in the 100 and 200-yard dashes and the broad and high jumps. Johnson's favorites are the mile and 880-yard runs.

The baseballers are expected to be in top shape for today's encounter, with four first line pitchers ready for action if needed. The hurlers are Mike Hosler, Don Rowland, Joe Adkins and Duane Dean.

John Wright probably will be behind the plate, Bill Purcell on first, Rowland or Hosler on second if not pitching, Cal Ellis at short and Bill Dickenson or Asa Elsea at third. In the outfield Dick Smith will patrol left, Jim Woods center and big Harry Strawser in right.

Circleville will be seeking its second win over the Franklin Heights crew. The Tigers downed the Columbus outfit here, 9-2, earlier in the season.

Ohio Fishing Streams Roily

Ponds, Lakes Labeled Best for Anglers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—This is no time to loiter along a river bank, if you're a fisherman. You'll have to find a pond or lake.

Practically all the state's streams are roily or muddy, and fishing is not too good, the state department of natural resources said Thursday in its weekly report to those bent on piscatorial pursuits.

Ohio Fishing Streams Roily

Ponds, Lakes Labeled Best for Anglers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—This is no time to loiter along a river bank, if you're a fisherman. You'll have to find a pond or lake.

Practically all the state's streams are roily or muddy, and fishing is not too good, the state department of natural resources said Thursday in its weekly report to those bent on piscatorial pursuits.

Here and there a stream is O.K., and most of the ponds and lakes are in good condition. Here's the sectional outlook:

NORTHWESTERN — Streams roily, muddy and high, with poor fishing. Several lakes, including St. Marys, East Harbor and Oxbow, in good shape and yielding bass, crappies and catfish.

NORTHEASTERN — Best fishing in such lakes as Pleasant Hill, and catfish.

EAST CENTRAL AND SOUTHEASTERN — Streams in poor condition. Best prospects in Burr Oak, Piedmont, Leesville, Clendenning, Tappan, Clouse, Hope and Alma lakes. Variety of species being taken.

CENTRAL AND SOUTHERN — Blacklick, Big Walnut, Mohican and Kokosing rivers are perfect, and some smallmouth bass being caught. Most success, however, is reported from such impoundments as Buckeye Lake, Delaware reservoir, Rocky Fork, Hoover and Jackson. All are clear and normal, and good catches of bass and crappies, with some bluegills and catfish, are being made.

SOUTHWESTERN — Streams are roily and high, and fishing poor. Some streams in Clermont, Clinton, Green, Shelby and Warren probably will be ready for weekend fishermen. Best lake conditions at Kiser, Stonelick, Cowan, Logan and Sinclair where fishing is reported good.

Best Fishing Hours
11 a. m. to 1 p. m. (F)
5:15 p. m. to 7:15 p. m. (B).
(B) denotes best, (F) fair.

Spahn Retains His Mastery Over Redlegs

CINCINNATI (AP)—According to age tables for baseball players, Warren Spahn should be nearing the end of his pitching career. But age hasn't hindered his mastery over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Spahn, who has spent his entire major league career pitching for the Braves—both the Boston and Milwaukee variety—made his record against Cincinnati stand at 46-15 Thursday night as he whipped the Redlegs, 6-2.

Last year he had a 6-1 mark against the Cincinnati.

Because of his faulty control, the Redlegs could have had Spahn out of the ball game in a hurry but they couldn't produce the knock-out hits. Spahn walked the first two men he faced and consistently was behind hitters through the first couple of innings or so.

But the Redlegs, who got only seven hits, never could come up with the blows that might have sent their tormentor to the showers. In fact, they didn't get to him for a run until the seventh when they put Steve Bilko's triple, Don Hoak's single, a passed ball and Ed Bailey's single together for their only runs.

Meanwhile, the Braves, sparked by Hank Aaron's two home runs and some generosity by four Cincinnati pitchers, pecked away for one run in each of six innings.

Indians Hope Night Tilt To Attract Fans

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians hope the first night game of the season at Municipal Stadium tonight will help change that empty seat look.

Ray Narleski (1-1) gets the pitching call for the Indians, who now have won two straight for the first time this season. For the Detroit Tigers in the opener of a four-game series, it will be Jim Bunning, whom Narleski topped in the Motor City last Sunday, 4-2.

Only 1,763 fans attended Thursday's game when the Indians swept the two-game series against the slumping Chicago White Sox, 6-4. Russ Nixon and Minnie Minoso hit home runs and Chico Carrasquel delivered a two-run double in the third inning when the Indians boosted their lead to 5-0.

Dick Tomaneck started for the Tribe and looked terrific in the first four innings when all he yielded was one base on balls. With one out in the fifth, though, the Sox tagged him for four straight hits and added two more off relief hurler Don Mossi for all four of their runs.

Mossi blanked the White Sox the rest of the way with two hits in 4 2-3 innings to pick up his first victory against one loss.

Akins Given Nod In Martinez Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Virgil Akins of St. Louis today was made the 13-10 betting choice to beat Vince Martinez of Paterson, N. J., in their world welterweight title bout at the St. Louis Arena, June 6.

The two finalists in the welterweight elimination tournament each will receive $30,000 for the 15-rounder which will be broadcast and telecast.

The date and site for the championship fight was announced Thursday by the International Boxing Club and promoter Emory Jones of St. Louis.

Kenyon College Signs Pflieder, as Coach

GAMBIER (AP)—Richard T. Pflieder, football coach at Gahanna Lincoln High School for the last seven years, Thursday was appointed head football coach at Kenyon College.

Pflieder, a native of Columbus and a 1948 graduate of Otterbein College, will also coach lacrosse and will be assistant director of physical education at Kenyon.

Ohio State To Be Slow In Picking New Cage Pilot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There will be some delay before Ohio State University names a new head basketball coach to succeed Floyd Stahl who resigned.

Soon after the athletic board accepted Stahl's resignation Wednesday night, ending his eight-year reign, Prof. Roderick D. Barden departed for Sweden.

The professor is chairman of the athletic board and of a four-man screening committee named to check the qualifications of aspirants to the coaching job.

University officials said they had no idea just how long Prof. Barden would be abroad on personal business, but they indicated little or nothing would be done about filling the job until he returns.

Meanwhile, the first man to formally apply for the berth is Paul Walker, coach of the mighty Middles of Middletown who have won Ohio's high school championship seven of the last 15 years.

Walker, whose teams have won five of the titles, starting in 1947, has a record of 248 wins against 40 losses at the Middle level.

Fred Taylor, the university's freshman basketball and baseball coach, also figures high among the candidates who are expected to flood the screening committee with applications.

Walker indicated he could fetch his three-time all-Ohio star, Jerry Lucas, to the Buckeye campus should he get the nod as the new coach.

In announcing his candidacy, Walker said:

"I think I have as good a chance as anybody. Sure I want the job, and I'm going to fight for it."

"I think I've got a lot of support, especially among the coaches. With my background and that support, I think I could get any job in the state of Ohio if I got the job. I'll go all out if I do get it."

Ohio Fishing Streams Roily

Ponds, Lakes Labeled Best for Anglers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—This is no time to loiter along a river bank, if you're a fisherman. You'll have to find a pond or lake.

Practically all the state's streams are roily or muddy, and fishing is not too good, the state department of natural resources said Thursday in its weekly report to those bent on piscatorial pursuits.

Here and there a stream is O.K., and most of the ponds and lakes are in good condition. Here's the sectional outlook:

NORTHWESTERN—Streams roily, muddy and high, with poor fishing. Several lakes, including St. Marys, East Harbor and Oxbow, in good shape and yielding bass, crappies and catfish.

NORTHEASTERN—Best fishing in such lakes as Pleasant Hill, and catfish.

EAST CENTRAL AND SOUTHEASTERN—Streams in poor condition. Best prospects in Burr Oak, Piedmont, Leesville, Clendening, Tappan, Clouse, Hope and Alma lakes. Variety of species being taken.

CENTRAL AND SOUTHERN—Blacklick, Big Walnut, Mohican and Kokosing rivers are perfect, and some smallmouth bass being caught. Most success, however, is reported from such impoundments as Buckeye Lake, Delaware reservoir, Rocky Fork, Hoover and Jackson. All are clear and normal, and good catches of bass and crappies, with some bluegills and catfish, are being made.

SOUTHWESTERN—Streams are roily and high, and fishing poor. Some streams in Clermont, Clinton, Green, Shelby and Warren probably will be ready for weekend fishermen. Best lake conditions at Kiser, Stonelick, Cowan, Logan and Sinclair where fishing is reported good.

Best Fishing Hours
SATURDAY
11 a. m. to 1 p. m. (F)
5:15 p. m. to 7:15 p. m. (B)

Spahn Retains His Mastery Over Redlegs

CINCINNATI (AP)—According to age tables for baseball players, Warren Spahn should be nearing the end of his pitching career. But age hasn't hindered his mastery over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Spahn, who has spent his entire major league career pitching for the Braves—both the Boston and Milwaukee variety—made his record against Cincinnati stand at 46-15 Thursday night as he whipped the Redlegs, 6-2.

Last year he had a 6-1 mark against the Cincinnatians.

Because of his faulty control, the Redlegs could have had Spahn out of the ball game in a hurry but they couldn't produce the knock-out hits. Spahn walked the first two men he faced and consistently was behind hitters through the first couple of innings or so.

But the Redlegs, who got only seven hits, never could come up with the blows that might have sent their tormentor to the showers. In fact, they didn't get to him for a run until the seventh when they put Steve Bilko's triple, Don Hoak's single, a passed ball and Ed Bailey's single together for their only runs.

Meanwhile, the Braves, sparked by Hank Aaron's two home runs and some generosity by four Cincinnati pitchers, peeked away for one run in each of six innings.

Trap Shoot Labeled Success By Deputy Sheriffs Group

A trap shoot sponsored Sunday at Tarleton by the Pickaway County Deputy Sheriffs Assn. was labeled a success today by officials of the organization.

The shoot was held in an effort to raise funds for the association's uniform fund. The group is an important cog here in helping Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff enforce law and order in Pickaway County.

Top prize of the day, a steak knife set, was awarded to crack shot Lester Shupe. Other winners in the matches included Albert and Alfred Van Fossen, Art Wilkin, Judd Dresbach, Dick Redman and Jim Brown.

Members of the association expressed thanks to local and area merchants who donated to make the shoot a success. Firms participating were:

Woman Saved After 3 Days Living in Snow

JOHN DAY, Ore. (AP)—An injured woman was rescued late Thursday after lying helpless beside a wrecked plane since her husband set out pantless through the snow for aid Monday.

Doctors said Mrs. Bruce Davis of Fresno, Calif., survived because of her stamina and her husband's courage.

After their plane crashed Monday in the snow-covered Malheur National Forest 30 miles west of here, Davis took off most of his clothing, bundled it around his wife, and set off for help.

For a day and a half the 36-year-old orchestra leader floundered through deep snow—clad only in his undershorts, shoes and a light sport coat.

On Wednesday he stumbled into a deserted cabin. There he found a blanket, out of which he made a panchito, and a boy's cowboy hat. Then he set out again. He reached help early Thursday.

His wife, meanwhile, lay beneath a crude shelter rigged beside the wrecked plane. She was without food and lashed with pain from a hip fracture.

At a hospital here, where Davis and his wife were recuperating, doctors said the 35-year-old woman was in good condition.

Movie Firms Weathering Music Strike

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The beleaguered movie industry now has more trouble on its hands—this time from the horn tooters and violin scrapers.

On Feb. 20, the American Federation of Musicians and the producers broke off negotiations for a new contract. Since then, no musicians have worked in the movie studios.

A survey shows that the musicians' strike has hampered but not seriously affected production.

Paramount recorded the scoring for "Vertigo" in London and Vienna before the AFM won agreements with most foreign musician unions not to work on Hollywood films. However, Mexico was not included, and Jerry Lewis scored his "Rockabye My Baby" there. Mexican musicians are also scoring the Elvis Presley film. Paramount has been forced to postpone start of the Red Nichols biography starring Danny Kaye.

Twentieth Century-Fox has scored "10 North Frederick" and "A Nice Little Bank That Should Be Robbed" in Mexico. Producer-director Frank Tashlin gave up preparation of a proposed Bing Crosby-Frank Sinatra film because of the strike.

Relief from the strike is not in sight.
